Are you a leading provider of Knowledge Transfer training?

The Institute of Knowledge Transfer (IKT) sets the highest standards for the development of its profession. It is keen to help Knowledge Transfer (KT) professionals work more effectively by providing support and guidance on a range of relevant KT Training and Development (T&D) and Continuing Professional Development (CPD) courses and qualifications.

The IKT actively seeks providers of best practice Knowledge Transfer training and development and/or CPD who can become recognised suppliers of KT relevant courses.

Whilst we expect content and processes to be unique to each course you run, we will be looking for high standards of organisational management and KT relevant training which will be of benefit to busy practitioners in this new and emerging sector. Course providers will have the opportunity to demonstrate through their own language and processes the ways in which they can meet the recognition requirements. We will be looking for an approach which embraces the continuing need for change and development relevant to the target sector of the course participants and which will deliver successful professional outcomes. You need only to apply once for Recognition but, once awarded, it will be reviewed and renewed annually.

The annual approvals process is designed as a fast-track system, based on a balance of KT understanding, and quality assurance measures and procedures. The process is designed to provide confidence to KT practitioners that the training is relevant to their needs endorsed by their professional institute.

The assessment is made by the IKT Course Accreditation Committee, a team of experienced KT specialists and practitioners, who review the course and the provider against defined criteria. For an Recognised Course Provider application form, please contact the Institute on 07595 217910 or visit www.ikt.org.uk.
